Overview

Butterfly pea, Clitoria ternatea, is a climbing vine with bright blue flowers that grows across tropical Asia, including Sri Lanka. The dried flowers brew a deep blue tea. Add lemon or lime and the color turns violet, which makes it popular in cafes, cocktails and colored rice and desserts.

Small growers in Sri Lanka pick the flowers by hand and dry them whole.

Where we can sell it

Butterfly pea flower is not authorised as a food in the European Union, so we do not sell it to buyers in the EU, the EEA, the United Kingdom or Switzerland. Buyers elsewhere should confirm their own country's food rules before ordering.

What to check

Ask for moisture, foreign matter and microbiology results. Good flowers are whole, deep blue and dry, with little green calyx or stem.

What to tell us for a quote

- The grade or specification you need
- Quantity per order and how often you buy
- Pack size, packaging and labelling
- Destination port and the Incoterm you prefer
- Documents your market requires

Samples and shipping

Order the sample online and pay by card; it ships from Sri Lanka by tracked airmail. Bulk orders are quoted FOB Colombo, CFR or CIF, by sea or air, and can share a container with other Sri Lankan goods through our consolidation service.

Issued by our Trade Desk in Colombo on the date shown. Figures are indicative, not a firm offer. Ask us for a certificate of analysis against your order. For a firm price against your quantity, destination and Incoterm, request a quote and we reply with a costed position.
